

Anna Hall

Faith Statement – May 30, 2010

Hi, my name is Anna Hall, and I see joy in my horse, Milton. Milton is a blackish-brownish thoroughbred gelding. He is a wonderful teacher who is always there. I see much of God's beauty in Milton, and I can't seem to imagine anything more beautiful than him. He may not be the most technically perfect horse, but he is willing to learn from me, just as I am willing to learn from him. Unison between us is important, just as unison is important between God & I. Milton is always willing to carry me to where I need to be, and I trust that he will get me there, even if I fall. When I make mistakes, Milton is always forgiving and holds nothing against me. With Milton, I always get as many chances as I need and the same is with God as he forgives me of my sins. I trust that Milton will get me there, just as I trust God to carry me through life, even if I fall. My Christian faith community is much like the community at my barn. They are all willing to teach me, help me, & guide me throughout my experiences. When I bought Milton, it was a HUGE commitment that made an impact & a difference in my life. After building up my knowledge of the horse world, I was finally ready to commit to that responsibility. It is the same with my confirmation. After building my knowledge of Christ, I am ready to commit myself to Christ. It will make a difference in my life for the better, just as Milton has. Milton is important to me because he is my best friend. He is always there for me & loves me no matter what, as Jesus is always there for me & loves me no matter what.
